

Mission: Get a girl back to your place

Mission Authoring Coach: Bravo

Mission Goal:

Learn how to smoothly and in a non-creepy way, get a girl to want to come back to your place.

Description:

If you want to do all the wonderful things two consenting adults can do in the privacy of home, you need to be able to pull her back to your place. You must make her feel comfortable and safe before she will want to accompany you back home. This mission will help you achieve just that.

Laying the ground work:

You already number closed her. You already seeded an event and planned a date. Now what? One of the most basic rules is to get her into your place as soon as possible. Now this doesn't mean try to sleep with her right away, even though this is easier than most think. Have her meet at your place at the start of the date. Not only does this let her feel more comfortable, she drove to your place, you don't know where she lives, she can hop in her car and leave whenever she wants. It also lets her feel more at ease because you are not checking out her home, she doesn't have to clean or worry about you judging her. So now that she has agreed to come to your place, and you are going to drive, when she shows up have her come inside for a few minutes. Whatever the reason, you need to grab something, show her a funny video or something you Tivo'ed, introduce her to your dog, something just to get her in there without you putting the moves on her, and get out. Doing this makes her much more at ease when it is time to go back after the date. Another point which I should not have to bring up but unfortunately do, clean your place. Make it woman friendly. Have items there that will make it easier for her to spend the night, like an extra toothbrush, a clean towel, and toilet paper.

On the date:

You are on a date that is something cool and puts the focus on having fun rather than just interviewing each other, you also need to escalate on the date. Think about how awkward it is to build up a kiss ALL night, and then finally try to plant it on her. It turns into this big deal, when it should be enjoyable and almost magical for both of you. It is also more difficult to go from a kiss to having sex in a short amount of time. So before you things get hot and heavy, you need to build on each previous step. We have already covered kiss closes in a earlier mission, or do what already works for you, but either way you need to build kino throughout the date. You also need to seed a reason to get back to your place. On the date you tell her about some pictures you have on your computer and she needs to see them, or about your cat and the DHV story about how you found her (also previous mission) and a trick she does, a drink or dessert, and my favorite of all make a bet over something for a backrub. It's a win-win either way!

Back at your place:

Since she has already been in your place before, she is more comfortable on the return. You also have a reason to go back, that way later when things do happen she can say, "it just happened." If you didn't bet a back rub, maybe you are both sitting on the bed looking at pictures or youtube vids on your laptop. You have already been kissing throughout the night so going for the kiss now isn't an issue. Not going to go into everything that can happen from freeze outs to techniques. But will mention that you need to have condoms nearby and know how to use them.

Reason to test:

The final step in any courtship is sex. If you aren't looking for someone you want to do this with, why study pick up

Follow up:

Additional tips or techniques that can help others with the home bounce? Go to www.PickUpLabs.com in the comments of this blog and share with others!